

Who are EHA?

Erica Harley Associates are specialists in creative, experiential learning events. We provide bespoke programmes for organisations that want to get the best out of their people from board level to the shop floor.

We believe that learning is most effective when it provides the opportunity for participants to practise the skills they are introduced to.

Our customers

- want to invest in the development of their staff
- want effective learning which will benefit the business
- are prepared to use innovative training methods
- want to provide learning which is relevant to the individual and the business

EHA can:

- make your staff feel valued
- provide effective, bespoke learning
- bring about behavioural and cultural change

Learning & Development

A strong team of highly qualified and experienced associates enables us to design, develop and deliver, bespoke programmes including:

-  management development
-  leadership skills
-  customer care
-  performance management
-  diversity
-  recruitment & selection

We believe passionately that people learn best when actively involved in the process. Our programmes are designed to address issues identified by our clients in a way which makes the learning memorable and effective.

Participants have the opportunity to experience the importance of interpersonal skills physically, visually, emotionally and intellectually. We make this happen by introducing professional actors to role play realistic scenarios.

memorable, bespoke, experiential

Conference Events

A piece of live theatre can enliven your conference and communicate your message to a large group of people - customers, suppliers or staff by:

-  raising enthusiasm and energy levels
-  getting your points across
-  throwing light on difficult issues
-  showing how behaviour can change
-  generating new ideas

Professional writers develop a script that takes the themes or ideas you want to permeate the conference and talented actors bring the script to life. The themes can be realistically presented in a variety of styles, from humorous to hard hitting, from which we can facilitate learning if appropriate.

Personal Development

Organisations who nurture staff improve their performance and increase staff retention.

Presentation Skills

Working with groups or individuals we can help them win a sales pitch, chair a meeting or present to small or large audiences.

EHA can help you:

-  create a dynamic script
-  engage with your audience
-  communicate your message
-  develop an individual style

Assessment/Development Centres

We can create centres which can include psychometric testing, bespoke exercises and focussed role plays. Working closely with the client we offer a wealth of experience and a variety of ideas and approaches to meet precise programme objectives.

Coaching

EHA's highly qualified coaches can help your people work towards a new role, develop in an existing role and improve communication skills. This can benefit your organisation and assist development of a 'coaching' culture.

If you want to learn more about the corporate experience of our coaches speak to us.
